The Young Man from Atlanta

the Pulitzer Prize winning play by

HORTON FOOTE

"One of Mr. Foote's most serious and scathing works... a work that will haunt you." -

VINCENT CANBY, THE NEW YORK TIMES

"Worthy of Ibsen or Arthur Miller... immensely satisfying, crafted with elegance, alive with feeling, holding a mirror up, if not to nature, at least to the next best thing, our concept of nature." -

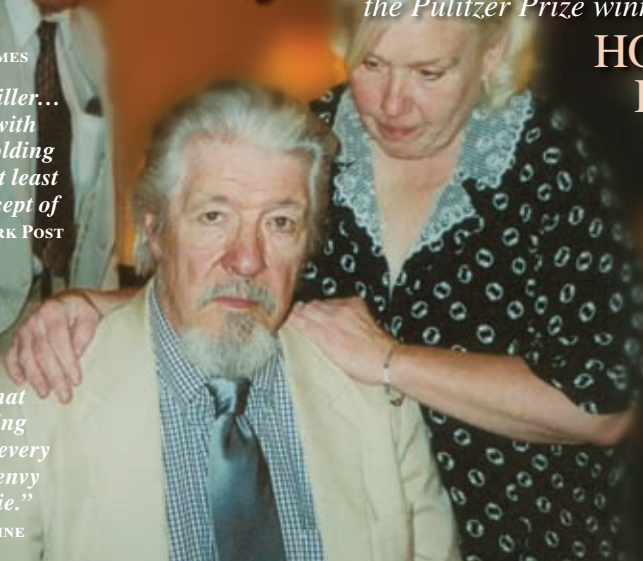

CLIVE BARNES, NEW YORK POST

"Beautifully wrought and very moving... Horton Foote is an American original." -

VARIETY

"He's so quiet we have to slow down to hear him, and then what he says is not so much surprising as confirming... I still believe every syllable of Horton Foote, and envy him. He doesn't know how to lie."

- JOHN LEONARD, NEW YORK MAGAZINE
